

CV Werner Steinhögl, 2012

Werner Steinhögl is a Scientific Project Officer at the European Commission in Brussels. He manages collaborative research projects and develops strategies for the ICT research work programme in the embedded systems design and control domain which runs in the directorate general Information Society and Media (INFSO). Before he had been working for 6 years in the Future and Emerging Technologies programme (FET) managing research in quantum information processing and atomic scale ICT devices. From 1999 to 2005 he was a research engineer and staff scientist at Infineon Corporate Research and did R&D in advanced semiconductor technologies, materials and devices. His education is in theoretical and experimental solid state and surface physics where he holds a PhD. He is author and coauthor of about 45 scientific papers and he contributed to more than 5 patents.